Albany is proof that upstate New York is every bit as alluring as the Big Apple. Situated on the banks of the Hudson River 150 miles north of New York City, Albany has grown from a modest Dutch settlement into a thriving metropolis full of attractions for the whole family. Albany isn't just the capital of New York; it is also the economic and cultural center of the state, boasting a rich and diverse history. Albany is renowned for its culture, architecture, and bountiful outdoor opportunities. Catch a play, musical performance or art exhibit at one of the city's world-class venues such as the Palace Theater or The Egg for a fun afternoon or evening out. Feeling hungry? Albany is home to a wide range of restaurants, from cozy corner pubs to trendy spots with outdoor patios, where the people watching is almost as good as the fresh and flavorful local cuisine. Looking for quiet solitude instead or a chance to enjoy a little fresh air? Albany has more than 60 public parks and recreation areas, with year-round events such as the popular Tulip Festival in May. With a population of just under 100,000 people, an emphasis on higher education, and a strong local economy traditionally immune to national economic recessions, Albany has plenty going for it and is a great place to raise a family!
